Note

Use the Languages tab to enter the title and description of your Webcast.

If the title and description fields in the language tab are left blank, the Webcast Manager will instead use the title and description in the Configuration tab as a fallback.

To make your webcast available in multiple languages, use the "Languages" tab to create and edit multiple language "sets" for your webcast.

Consult this article for the list of supported languages.

In addition to specific languages, you can also select the floor language.

This option is particularly useful for multilingual webcasts where speeches are delivered in different languages one after another.

Language sets comprise the stream URLs and slide presentations associated with the specified language. Each set must contain the same number of presentations and slides.

One language set is created by default for each new webcast; this will be the primary language.

The default language for this first set will match the one used by the linked streaming server.

The screenshot shows the Webcast Manager interface. The top navigation bar is green with 'Webcast Manager' on the left and 'Acme Corporation' on the right. Below the navigation bar, the left sidebar contains a list of options: Webcasts, Archived Webcasts, Themes, VideoManager, Streaming Server, Video Conference, and User. The main content area displays the 'Acme Corporation / Webcasts / Languages' page. It features a breadcrumb trail: 'Acme Corporation / Webcasts / Languages'. Below this, there's a status bar with 'On Demand', 'Nov 8, 2018 9:00 AM / Weekly Meeting Product', and buttons for 'Preview' and 'Create'. A tabbed interface shows 'Configuration', 'Security', 'Appearance', 'Presentations', 'Languages' (selected), and 'Markers'. The 'Languages' tab displays a table with one entry: 'EN English Slides'. Below the table, it shows '1 ingest URL(s)', '1 presentation(s)', and '178 slide(s) total'.

The content of additional language sets will be compared to the first set in the list (usually the default set unless that one is later deleted).

1. Click [+ Create] to create a new language set. Find out which languages are supported here.
