

Ownership - The User and Rights Management

Movingimage makes it easy to control who can access your content. Videos are only accessible to a group of owners, and you can give other people access by creating access profiles with defined rights. You can add your employees as users and assign them to groups, which usually represent departments or subsidiaries. Everyone in a group has equal access rights. You can also individually set access rights and permissions to ensure safety.

This section discusses first basic terms of user management.