

Re-Upload of Videos

It is not possible to transfer the same video file in a YouTube channel. You have to delete it first from your YouTube channel and then re-upload it.

To re-upload videos on YouTube, proceed as follows:

1. Click the [Re-Upload] button of the YouTube channel you want to upload the video to.

The screenshot shows a 'Social Media' header with a dropdown arrow. Below it is a 'Selection' section with a dropdown menu labeled 'Select a social media profile'. Underneath is an 'Overview' section containing a table of social media profiles.

2. A pop-up asking you to confirm the deletion of the video from your YouTube channel will appear.

The dialog is titled 'Re-upload video to YouTube' and contains a warning message: 'If this video already exists in the "movingimage German Marketing" YouTube channel, please delete it from there before re-uploading. It is not possible to replace an existing YouTube video.' Below the message is a checkbox labeled 'This video does not exist in the "movingimage German Marketing" YouTube channel'. At the bottom are 'Cancel' and 'Re-upload' buttons.

3. Tick the checkbox for confirmation.

This is the same dialog as above, but the checkbox 'This video does not exist in the "movingimage German Marketing" YouTube channel' is now checked. The 'Re-upload' button is highlighted in blue.

4. Click on the [Re-Upload] button.
